El ction/R strictions

This application contains claims directed to the following patentably distinct species of the claimed invention:

1. The species of the claimed invention in claims 1, 2, 4, 5, corresponding to a semiconductor device comprising a first interlayer insulating layer, a plurality of wiring lines which are formed of Cu whose concentration is equal to or greater than 10^{19} atoms/cm³ thereon, an insulating layer which has a property that Cu is unlikely to enter said insulating layer and which insulates between said plurality of wiring lines; and a second interlayer insulating layer formed thereon having a property that Cu is unlikely to enter therein as delineated in claim 1.

2. The species of the claimed invention in claim 14, corresponding to a semiconductor device comprising a multilayer insulating layer comprising a middle layer of PAE, an upper layer of PAE, an upper insulating layer and a lower insulating layer of HSQ, an opening in said layers, and a wiring line formed within that opening and composed of Cu having a concentration equal or higher than 10^{19} atoms/cm³.

3. The species of the claimed invention in claims 15-24 corresponding to a semiconductor device comprising a first interlayer insulating layer, a first layer of low permittivity material formed on said first insulating layer, said low permittivity material having a property that a migration of copper is limited in said material, a first plurality of sections of copper being embedded in said first layer of lower permittivity material, a second insulating layer formed on said layer of low permittivity material, wherein said first insulating layer and said second insulating layer have a property in strength that offsets a property in strength of said first layer of low permittivity material.

Applicant is required under 35 U.S.C. 121 to elect a single disclosed species for prosecution on the merits to which the claims shall be restricted if no generic claim is finally held to be allowable. Currently, no claim is generic.

Applicant is advised that a reply to this requirement must include an identification of the species that is elected consonant with this requirement, and a listing of all claims readable thereon, including any claims subsequently added. An argument that a claim is allowable or that all claims are generic is considered nonresponsive unless accompanied by an election.

Upon the allowance of a generic claim, applicant will be entitled to consideration of claims to additional species which are written in dependent form or otherwise include all the limitations of an allowed generic claim as provided by 37 CFR 1.141. If claims are added after the election, applicant must indicate which are readable upon the elected species. MPEP § 809.02(a).

Should applicant traverse on the ground that the species are not patentably distinct, applicant should submit evidence or identify such evidence now of record showing the species to be obvious variants or clearly admit on the record that this is the case. In either instance, if the examiner finds one of the inventions unpatentable over the prior art, the evidence or admission may be used in a rejection under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) of the other invention.

Art Unit: 2814

Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include an election of the invention to be examined even though the requirement be traversed (37 CFR 1.143).
